DETAILED ACTION

1. Applicant's election with traverse of Group II, claims 8-25 in the reply filed on July 26, 2004 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that that would not be a burden in searching both groups. This is not found persuasive because Groups I and II possessed separate classifications and therefore would have required separate searches. Furthermore, the apparatus of Group II as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process, for instance using the rotary dial input device to control the temperature of the device. It is also pointed out that the method of Group I does not require the cooking appliance and its control system as it only recites "a method for controlling". Therefore, the method of Group I can be practiced with other devices.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

2. Claims 1-7 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as drawn to a nonelected invention. Election was made with traverse in the reply filed on July 26, 2004.

3. As a result of the election, the Group Art Unit of this application has been changed to Group Art Unit 3742.

4. The drawings filed 10-28-2002 are acceptable.

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 19, 21 and 25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Lee (US 5,60,611).

Lee shows a microwave oven including a control system comprising a control panel 7 comprising at least one rotary dial input device 10 including switch 66 and knob 63 for selecting control information for said cooking appliance, said control information comprising at least one of a cooking mode, a food type, a food weight, a temperature, and a degree of doneness, said cooking appliance operatively responsive to said selection of said control information from said rotary dial; and a select switch (switching disc 30, 40 and knob 67) mechanically coupled to said rotary dial input device, said select switch configured to input said control information to said cooking appliance (see Figures 1-3 and col. 2, line 14 – col. 7, line 62).

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. Claims 8-18, 20 and 22-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lee (US 5,60,611), in view of Carmean (US 4,568,810) or McGeorge (US 4,636,621) (both cited by the applicant)

As set forth above, Lee shows every feature and structure as claimed except it does not show the use of its control interface displaying device 140 to provide a prompt to guide a user through selecting said control information, said control interface configured to interact with at least one cooking mode of cooking appliance. Carmean shows that it is well known in the art of microwave ovens to use its display to provide prompts for guiding the user to operate the control of the oven (see Figure 3 and col. 3, line 31 – col. 4, line 51 and col. 8, line 65 – col. 9, line 66. McGeorge also shows an oven control system with a control panel 102 having rotary switching selector 103 which interfaces with the display unit 23B to provide prompts to the user (see Figure 5 and col. 17, lines 23-51). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Lee to use its display to interface with the switches to include prompts to the user as a programming guidance for easier operation of the oven control system, in view of the teaching of Carmean or McGeorge. In regard to claim 18, the use of a lightwave mode and/or a microwave mode for cooking is well known in the art of ovens (see the below paragraph).

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Westerberg et al (US 5,517,005) is cited to show a combination oven with microwave and lightwave for cooking having various claimed features (col. 4, lines 52-62).
